Insights and Strategies for Successful Social-Emotional and Academic Success

This informative and interactive session is designed for educators, school administrators, and anyone passionate about fostering the development of students. In today's complex educational landscape, it is increasingly important to equip learners with not only academic knowledge but also essential life skills. This session delves into the Collaborative for Academic, Social, and Emotional Learning (CASEL) competencies, a framework recognized worldwide for promoting social-emotional learning (SEL) in educational settings. Participants will explore CASEL's five core competencies – Self-Awareness, Self-Management, Social Awareness, Relationship Skills, and Responsible Decision-Making – and discover practical strategies to integrate these competencies into their teaching and school culture. By aligning social-emotional learning with academic goals, attendees will gain insights and tools to create a positive and inclusive learning environment that empowers teachers and students to thrive both academically and emotionally.

Engage Students and Accelerate Learning through Project Based Learning

Project-based learning, or PBL, is a great approach for engaging students in problem-solving with a purpose while also addressing content standards across subject areas. This session is designed for new and experienced PBL teachers interested in learning more about how to become stronger facilitators using the seven essential project design elements, as well as the project-based teaching practices in their classrooms. It is also ideal for teachers who are just getting started with PBL to strengthen their practices on student engagement and accelerating learning.

Our experienced Professional Learning Team, made up of veteran educators, uses research-based strategies to elevate practice, support teachers and maximize student success.

Empowering Struggling Readers

Literacy is the key to academic, professional and personal success. Poor literacy skills are shown to be connected to many life-long struggles. The good news is that there are strategies and best practices that can target and build literacy skills in all students. This session explores the specific needs of readers with Dyslexia, those who are learning English as a second language and struggling readers in Grades 1-6. Learn tips and strategies for supporting them along the Five Pillars of Literacy.

We offer flexible pathways such as on-demand live sessions, onsite and remote learning to suit your schedule. Our Professional Learning Team will assess your needs and develop action plans to meet your goals.

Engaging the 21st Century Learner:
How Gamification in the Classroom Promotes the Growth Mindset

Most well-designed games give us pleasure and make us want more. Alternating failure with success is the core concept at the heart of many video games, which is why a growth mindset pedagogy and game-based learning go hand in hand. Teachers will explore the research of how gamification increases student engagement and motivation while nurturing the Growth Mindset.

As your learning partner, 3P's Professional Development sessions include a variety of remote and onsite offerings to support your professional goals, every step of the way. Learn, master, and grow with 3P Learning today.

Innovating with Purpose:
Building Stronger Human Connections in Schools in the A.I. Era

Although Artificial intelligence (A.I.) is a rapidly evolving technology that has the potential to revolutionize, it is not new. The concept of A.I. has been around for decades. In this session, we will explore A.I. as a tool and how we can leverage its power in schools while maintaining the need for the human connection.

At 3P Learning, we understand teachers. Our workshops are designed by a team of educators to blend pedagogical knowledge, best practices, and hands-on application to any instructional setting.

Elevating the "3 PEAs" of Equity and Inclusion in the Classroom

Responding to the level of diversity in your classroom is more important than ever. But all too often, our education system reinforces the same inequalities it was designed to overcome. Let's consider how fostering equity in Planning, Execution and Assessment levels the playing field for all learners.

As your partner in education and professional learning, we are here to support teachers in every phase of their professional journey.

Unpacking the Science of Reading & Putting it Into Practice in the Literacy Classroom

Let's simplify the definition of the Science of Reading (SoR) and examine the Five Pillars of Reading and the Five Key Points of Reading that emerged from the research behind the SoR. Then let's explore best practices in the literacy classroom.

These sessions aim to educate, empower and equip classroom teachers with new strategies to bring back to the classroom. We believe in creating lifelong learners, within both our student and teacher communities.
